CHAMPAGNE

For those of us who love Champagne, there is nothing quite like the sound of a popping cork . Anticipation immediately sharpens the senses as one awaits the clinking of glasses and ultimately the first sip. Nothing but nothing can emulate the best. The mediocre can be challenged the world over but top Champagne is unbeatable. Quite simply the soil and climate within Champagne conspired, well before man's interventions, to produce a naturally sparkling wine. Coarse and dull, this would bear little resemblance to the crystal clear wine we know today. It took the dedication and patience of one Dom Perignon to produce the basis of what we know and love. It was he who learned to manipulate the presses in order to produce a starbright wine from black grapes, who introduced the cork in place of oiled hemp as a stopper and who, perhaps most important, realised the advantages of blending. From his time there have been enormous changes in procedure and technology, but the fact that the area produced an effervescent wine naturally is proof of the intrinsic advantages over the rest of the world in terms of geography. Winemakers the world over have become obsessed with the finer details of the Champagne method and, indeed, have followed its every detail but the final product, however good, is not Champagne. The vital ingredient is the soil and aspect of the region itself. That said, there are enormous variations in quality within Champagne and that comes down to the skill of the winemaker. Blending grape with grape, cru with cru is an art form and distinguishes great from good. The Champagne houses must initially concentrate on the quality of the raw material which they use and, to this end, close attention is paid to every step from growing to pressing. Thence to the blend. This blending is what gives the Champagne balance and a house its style. For your enjoyment we have chosen a range of styles, from our house Champagne, very much in the French style with full well rounded fruit through to Krug. Vintage Krug with some bottle age just defies description. THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING AS THEY SAY.....

Alsace is known for a great diversity in styles of wine thanks to a wide variety of natural factors, climate, soils etc. alongside a large number of grape varieties. The wines tend to complement fresh water fish and white meats particularly well.

WHIG	2014 Gewurztraminer	Cléebourg		£35.00
WHIG	2011 Riesling	Bebenheim	Domaine Trapet	£51.00

LOIRE

The Loire Valley is unwisely considered to be one area since it extends from the Nantes area (home of Muscadet) with a coastal climate through Anjou, Touraine as far as Sancerre which is really central France and which obviously experiences a markedly different climate. That said, it is one of the most interesting areas as a result of the great variety produced.

RHONE

The Rhone Valley can most easily be looked upon as two distinct areas separated by the Ardèche. The geography is so different between the North and South as to enforce quite different growing methods and, indeed, different grape varieties. Generally, the Northern reds are from the spicy Syrah grape (the Shiraz of the New World) with the Southern wines coming from a blend of several varieties, often dominated by the Grenache.

BURGUNDY

The Red Burgundy Grape is Pinot Noir, a rather pale coloured grape which produces much less intensely coloured wines than those of Bordeaux, but whose colour often belies great weight and complexity on the palate. Bourgogne Grand Ordinaire is one of two appellations which allows the blending of Gamay, the Beaujolais grape, with Pinot Noir. This gives a much earlier drinking Burgundy. Coulanges is a rare buy in this country coming essentially from Chablis country in the North where we might be surprised to find a wine of this depth.

With the exception of Aligote, all the White Burgundy wines are made from the ubiquitous Chardonnay grape and yet they all have a markedly different style. Chablis in the North reflects its northerly climate in its crisp acidity and lean elegance. The Côte de Beaune's whites are fuller and the best show tremendous finesse. They are enjoyable when young but undergo a metamorphosis during maturation to become, for those of us who enjoy old White Burgundy, SENSATIONAL! Even the most straightforward Bourgogne Blanc tends to benefit from a little bottle age. The more robust, hearty wines of the Chalonnais and Maconnais are hugely different from Chablis. They are full bodied and characterful and represent excellent value.

Chablis

Chablis is the classic accompaniment to shellfish and flavourful fish and white meats. It is slightly austere in comparison to the fuller Chardonnays in the South and this complements langoustines, lobster, etc. Petit Chablis encompasses a rather larger area than Chablis proper and the name identifies wines from borderline Chablis vineyards. It is a wine for earlier drinking than Chablis from the same year.

Côte de Beaune

The Côte de Beaune commences with the hill of Corton housing Aloxe-Corton, Ladoix-Serrigny and Pernand-Vergelesse. The fact that Corton Rouge is a wine for keeping which rivals the concentration of a Nuits red, that Pernand-Vergelesse is soft, seductive and earlier drinking and that the Côte de Beaune magnificent white wines are even more famous than the reds, age beautifully and rank amongst the very best in the world, gives some idea of the complexity of the Côte.

Côte Chalonnaise

One of the best value zones in France for quality wines, the Côte Chalonnais is in part calcareous, favouring white wine production and in part clay, favouring reds. The best known whites are Rully and Montagny which enjoy similar styles although Montagny is slightly fuller and less subtle than the former. The reds are for early drinking.

Côte de Nuits

The Côte de Nuits is devoted almost exclusively to red wines from the Pinot Noir. This northerly part of the Côte d'Or is much more sharply sloping and narrower than the Côte de Beaune to the South. The best soils for red wine lie lower down the slope, although there are pockets where optimum soil conditions account for top vineyard names. The great wines tend towards great potency and concentration. With time, they mature to show smooth elegance and a rich perfumed bouquet.

BEAUJOLAIS

The soil of Beaujolais is markedly different from the Burgundy vineyards to its north. The calcareous soil of Macon in the North gives way to schistous granite in itself giving the Gamay grape a depth of flavour which it often lacks. There are ten Beaujolais Crus, each with its own style. The styles range from light early drinking Regnié through the fuller wines such as Julienas.

THE MIDI

Languedoc-Roussillon

More than one third of all French wine is from the vineyards of The Midi. These wines vary enormously, as one might imagine, in terms of quality, but over the last decade or so farmers have really latched onto the idea of producing less wine but of higher quality. They have been helped greatly by information and technology from other areas of the world who, similarly, have battled with extremely high temperatures. Thus the coarse, dull wines of the past have made way for Vin de Pays amongst which there are some superb examples such as Mas de Daumas Gassac which now enjoys considerable international renown. In short the wines reflect the individuality, imagination and care taken by the individual winemakers and offer some the best combinations of quality and value to be found in France.

SOUTHWEST FRANCE

This region encompasses numerous small, scattered areas that combine to produce an impressively wide range of excellent value wines with diverse, but quite discernible, stylistic influences from Bordeaux, Spain, Languedoc-Roussillon, and the Rhône. Centered around the small village of the same name, Irouleguy is located in the far south-western corner of France in the northern Basque Country. Its western and southern boundaries are formed by France's border with Spain.

CÔTES DE PROVENCE

Cotes de Provence is the largest appellation of the Provence wine region in south-eastern France. It covers roughly 50,000 acres (20,250ha) of vineyards, which produce the vast majority of Provence's rose wine. Although it also covers red and white wine, about 85% of Cotes de Provence's output is rosé, made predominantly from Grenache, Syrah, Mourvedre, Cinsaut and the quintessentially Provencal grape Tibouren.

Rosé

WHIG	2015 Château la Tour de l'Eveque			£30.00

BORDEAUX

Claret has long been the natural and favourite source of red wines for Scotland for centuries. Some of the great names have been shipped to the West Coast uninterrupted since the mid 18th century. The range available is extremely diverse not only from area to area but within the same appellation as the various microclimates, aspects and soils conspire with the skill of the grower and winemaker to make Bordeaux possibly the most complex wine region in the world. The Bordeaux dry white wines have had their ups and downs over the years although it has generally been accepted that inexpensive, well made dry wine is better than the cheapest dessert wines. As the wines started to enjoy a boom the catastrophic vintage of 1991 and subsequent price increase stifled aspirations. The very best Bordeaux whites do, however, represent excellent value.

THE MÉDOC

The style of wine alters more radically over short distances in the Médoc than in any other French red wine district. The wines are mild and unexceptional immediately northwest of Bordeaux, but from Ludon onwards they become progressively more characterful, acquire finesse, and – after Margaux – gain considerable body. Beyond St. Estèphe, the firmness of body of the wines eventually turns to coarseness, and their finesse fades.

Haut Médoc

The Médoc runs along the left bank of the Gironde and is divided into two regions: the Haut Médoc towards the South (the home of most of the great properties) and the Médoc. The unique combination of gravel, top soil and clay, chalk and limestone as subsoil is all important in the health of the vines and the characteristics of the wines produced. Vines grown in atypical soils such as those close to the river do not qualify for the appellation.

Margaux

The wines of Margaux in the south typically show great finesse and are intense without being heavy. Its characteristics are put down to the particularly light gravelly soil.

Red

T&W	1983 Château Rausan-Ségla	Grand Cru Classé	Margaux	£172.00

Pauillac

The wines of Pauillac are generally regarded as quintessential Médoc. They exhibit an intense colour and a full, complex nose. They are both full bodied and elegant on the palate.

T&W	1996 Les Tourelles de Longueville		Pauillac	£200.00

BRKR	1970 Château Mouton Rothschild [1]	1er Cru Classé	Pauillac	£650.00

Saint-Estèphe

The most northerly of the appellations of the Médoc, Saint-Estèphe produces very hearty, slow maturing wines with a great deal of colour. Potentially the best ageing wine in the Médoc.

Red

WHIG	2007 Château Ormes de Pez		Saint-Estèphe	£65.00

Saint-Julien

Saint-Julien with its gravel plateau flanking the river, is one of the prime sites of Bordeaux producing mainly second, third and fourth growths. The wines show a great deal of the finesse of Margaux in the South in harmony with the rather more full bodied Pauillac.

Red

WHIG	2010 Pavillon de Léoville Poyferré		Saint-Julien	£60.00
FRTH	1988 Gruaud Larose	2ème Cru Classé	Saint-Julien	£224.00

GRAVES, CÉRON, SAUTERNES AND BARSAC

The finest red Graves wines are produced in Pessac-Léognan, good red and improving dry white wines in the centre of Graves, and the great sweet wines of Sauternes and Barsac in the south. The emphasis in production is on classic red wines.

Graves

The Graves region is, as the name suggests, known for its predominantly (but by no means exclusively) gravelly soil. The better wines come from the North of the area. The wines of Graves can show similar intensity to those of the Medoc but they are, over all, more robust and heartier than the more elegant wines from the North.

Red

Pessac-Léognan

This appellation covers the ten best communes that have the right to Graves AOC, and it is not by chance that it also encompasses 55 of the best estates. Soft, silky reds of great violet elegance, and not lacking either concentration or length. Most have been aged in a percentage of new oak, which adds a smoky or tobacco-like complexity.

BOURG AND BLAYE

The ancient towns of Bourg and Blaye are so close together that their wines are often regarded as being under the same banner. The vineyards lie on the steep hills rising from the rivers. Both red and white are produced with the reds undeniably being the better option. These are a Cabernet Franc/Merlot blend which gives an essentially rustic style with good colour and tannic structure. If a distinction is to be made the Côtes de Bourg reds tend to be slightly fuller with a more rigid tannic structure.

Côtes de Bourg

Situated South of Bourg and Blaye the soil has a strong clay limestone base. Sandy gravel deposits are sometimes covered with brown and red marl, which Merlot appreciates a great deal, so it accounts for 67% of the vines planted in these AOCs. Côtes de Bourg wines present an extremely deep purple colour, with hints of black. Elegantly full-bodied, they express aromas of stewed small black berries, with touches of undergrowth and spices.

THE LIBOURNAIS AND FRONSADAIS

The right bank of the Dordogne River, known as the Libournais district, is red-wine country. Dominated by the merlot grape, the vineyards here produce deep coloured, silky – or velvety – rich wines of classic quality in St-Émilion and Pomerol regions, in addition to wines of modest quality, but excellent value and character, in the “Satellite” appellations that surround them.

Côtes de Castillon

This is an attractive hilly area squeezed between St-Émilion, the Dordogne River, and the Dordogne département. Its wine has long been appreciated for quality, consistency, and value. Firm, full-bodied, fine-coloured wines with dense fruit and finesse.

Red

WHIG	2011 Château Cadet		Côtes de Castillon	£49.00
WHIG	2010 L’Aurage		Côtes de Castillon	£90.00

Pomerol

Pomerol rather defies classification and its sheer diversity in styles goes a long way to proving that soils make essential differences to the wine which eventually lands in your glass. With Petrus and now Le Pin at the Pomerol pinnacle, Trotanoy makes an admirable second. These combine a lot of tannin with incredible, almost fat fruit. Velvet is the description most often bandied about.

WHIG	2005 Château La Grave a Pomerol		Pomerol	£148.00
T&W	1999 Château Haut-Maillet		Pomerol	£144.00

Saint-Émilion

The vineyards of Saint-Émilion envelop one of the prettiest towns in France. These vineyards actually exhibit quite different soil types and yet there is a manifest degree of common style. Warm, rich fruit is obvious against a backdrop less tannic than that of the Médoc wines. Please note that these wines fall under the classification of 1954.

ITALY

Northwest / Piemonte

In the Northwest of Italy, the Nebbiolo grape is king of red wine production, being responsible for wines of world renown such as Barolo. Also, in Italy the name of the producer is shown which is different from Bordeaux, where it is the name of the commune. In this region the supremacy of red wines leaves little room for whites, but one native white grape, Cortese, is responsible for Gavi, a wine of uncommon grace and delicacy.

Northeast

Trentino / Alto Adige / Sudtirolo/Veneto/Colli Orientali Del Friuli

This region which abuts Austria makes wines of an understated, classical and often austere style. Here, a white wine tradition that parallels Piemonte's devotion to reds, supported by splendidly exposed hillside vineyards, gives us Italy's most distinguished white wines. The wines are noted for their excellent balance, crispness and acidity. The reds are also well made, the usual style is fuller and rounder. Northeast Italy can, at best, supply some of the most highly renowned Italian wines and where good husbandry, microclimate and vinification work in harmony the results are outstanding. Valpolicella, at its best from the more difficult, rugged slopes which identify the Classico region, is the better known wine and is available at several quality levels. Amarone comes from the ripest grapes and is a rich, full bodied wine which balances weighty alcohol with good fruit. Veneto's whites are not in the same league as the Alto Adige or Friuli, but are nonetheless among the most engaging, certainly the most popular produced in Italy.

Tuscany/Umbria/Lazio

Tuscany was once identified, almost exclusively, as the home of Chianti. Now, despite retaining an almost antiquated, rural appearance, it has become a highly innovative region. Three of the few wines recognised by legislation as being Italy's best come from Tuscany - Chianti itself, Brunello Di Montalcino and Vino Nobile Di Montepulciano. In its force, weight and overbearing style, Vino Nobile is the quintessential Tuscan wine. It derives its lineage from the Sangiovese grape and for those who enjoy forcefully vinous, solid, spiced sensations in a wine will respond to its intensity. Brunello Di Montalcino is considered among the most prestigious of Italian wines. It was invented over a hundred years ago by Biondi Santi and its quality and reputation have been nursed and nurtured ever since. If one is in doubt about how the terms austere, big and full are applied to wine, a mouthful of Brunello will give a forceful demonstration of their meaning.

Abruzzi/Marche

This area comprises the regions of Emilia-Romagna, The Marches, The Abruzzi and Molise. The best quality wines come from the Marches and the Abruzzi, but the best-known is Emilia-Romagna's lollipop wine, Lambrusco, which is exported in vast quantities.

Southern and The Islands

Campania/Sicily/Puglia/Basilicata

Hot and largely hilly, with volcanic soils, southern Italy is an ancient and prolific wine-growing area. Overproduction continues to be a problem, but well made wines were starting to clean up Italy's southern plonk image over a decade ago, since when a host of flying winemakers have had some remarkably expressive wines utilizing local varieties.

SPAIN

Wines have been made in Spain from ancient times. There are records of the Phoenicians buying in the southern regions and it is probable that Spanish wines were imported into England before the Middle Ages and possibly even in Roman times. Spain has more land given over to wine production than any other country in the world. The Rioja wines are predominantly fruity reds with a pronounced oaky nose and flavour. The best of the Catalonia wines rival Rioja and are dark in colour and high in alcohol.

ARGENTINA

Argentina is the fifth leading producer of wine in the world. The Catena Chardonnay is a fine example of how good a wine may be when a producer is dedicated in their pursuit of excellence. Red wines from Argentina's top bodegas can possess considerable flavour dimension and complex aroma profiles. Robert Parker rates Bodega Weinert as producing South America's greatest red wines and he feels they are the qualitative equal of the finest reds in the world. The ultra premium Catena Alta wines are made from single vineyard sites and only in exceptional years. Parker gives the Malbec a 94 rating.

LEBANON

Only 10% of Lebanon's vineyards are used for wine, and they are mostly confined to the Bekaa Valley, where there is a ten-fold potential for expansion. The Bekaa Valley was put on the wine map by Serge Hochar, owner of Chateau Musar, during the 15 year civil war.

CALIFORNIA

The preferred wine producing areas of California are the cooler regions to the north including the Napa and Sonoma Valleys. Generically there is little to be said about these regions as so much depends on the individual winemakers. Napa is the Indian word for plenty, a very fitting name for such a rich and fertile land. The Napa Valley is regarded as the most prestigious vineyard county. Being highly prized, land costs determine the production of most quality wines. Cabernet Sauvignon dominates in the production of red wines although the rather cooler area Carneros to the south benefits sufficiently from the breezes from San Francisco Bay to allow Pinot Noir to be grown. The wines from Sonoma County come from the Sonoma Valley, Santa Rosa, Russian River, Alexander Valley and Dry Creek. The Sonoma Valley lies parallel to the Napa Valley being separated by the Mayacamas Mountains which play a decisive roll in terms of climate. Dry Creek, Russian River and Alexander Valley have acquired their own individual appellations.

WASHINGTON STATE

In recent years, Washington's wine industry has become the fastest-growing agricultural sector in the state. The number of Washington wineries has increased 400% in the last decade, attracting two million annual visitors to Washington wine country and creating a two million dollar wine-tourism industry. Located on approximately the same latitude (46°N) as some of the great French wine regions of Bordeaux and Burgundy, Washington State wine country now includes 13 federally recognized American Viticultural Areas (AVAs), commonly known as appellations. Three of them share territory with Oregon State. Climates of individual Washington wine regions differ dramatically. Cross cut north to south by the Cascade Mountains, Washington State is more mild and lush to the west of this volcanically formed barrier than the lands to its east. Vineyards on the east side of the Cascades grow 99% of Washington's wine grapes, and 12 of the state's 13 official AVAs/appellations are located here. The macro appellation of the Columbia Valley encompasses the smaller Yakima Valley AVA, Rattlesnake Hills, Red Mountain AVA, Walla Walla Valley AVA, Horse Heaven Hills, Wahluke Slope, Snipes Mountain and Naches Heights. The Columbia Gorge AVA begins at the western edge of the Columbia Valley AVA and continues west and south to areas along the Columbia River in both Oregon and Washington.

AUSTRALIA

Although bulk wine still accounts for a large proportion of turnover in Australia, the general trend moves towards ever improved quality. That said, scant regard for designated wine regions means that blending of different grapes from any number of regions continues. There is little by way of guidance therefore on a label save the winemakers name. Whether by luck or by design it was decided to market wines using grape variety. Traditionally Shiraz, a rich, soft, peppery red, dominated red wine production but the ubiquitous Cabernet Sauvignon is now enjoying great success. Full ripe forward fruit dominates in soft easy drinking wines which are low enough in acidity to suit most palates.

New South Wales

From the weighty Hunter Valley Shiraz, through to honeyed, bottle-aged Sémillon (once sold as Hunter Riesling), and the easy-drinking Murrumbidgee wines, to the fast-rising wines from areas such as Orange and Hilltops – Australian wines are even better in quality and more varied in style than ever.

Victoria and Tasmania

From Tasmania, Australia's newest wine region, to Victoria, one of its oldest and most traditional, the quality of the wines being produced is ever-improving. Victoria is perhaps most famous for such specialties as its intensely sweet, rich, and sticky liqueur Muscat and Tokay, but between them, these states probably have a greater range of wine styles than anywhere else on the entire continent.

South Australia

This is Australia's most productive wine region, accounting for almost 50 per cent of the country's total wine output, including the majority of its cheapest wines, although this does not restrict it to the bottom end of the market – South Australia also makes some of the country's finest and most expensive wines.

NEW ZEALAND

Despite the situation of New Zealand geographically, its mountains, its lack of land mass in relation to surrounding ocean and wind conditions all conspire to provide a surprising range of growing conditions which are, in the main, rather cooler than Australia. This relative coolness allows for subtle wines with some finesse.

CHILE

Of all the wine-producing regions around the world, Chile has for years offered the best value. Unfortunately in the last decade the quality has slipped to be replaced by quantity. That said, natural conditions are ideal for grape growing in Central Chile. Chilean Cabernets have led the way with original flavours that are rapidly gaining in quality, while Merlot, Sauvignon Blanc and Chardonnay are now showing equal promise. A new region called Casablanca is proving especially good for Chardonnay. Several French and California winemakers have invested in vineyards and wineries and as well a number of the better local producers are once again turning out finer wines while keeping prices stable.
